

ACADEMIC ENGLISH
(LAE1113)

WEEK 4

Learning Outcomes...

At the end of today's lesson,
you should:

- Be able to know about citations.

A low-angle, upward-looking photograph of five graduates in black academic regalia. They are all smiling and looking towards the sky, which is filled with the green foliage of trees. The graduates are of diverse backgrounds. One graduate in the upper right is holding a rolled-up diploma tied with a red ribbon. The text "Academic Integrity" is superimposed in the center of the image.

Academic Integrity

What is Academic Integrity?

1. Honesty, trust, fairness, and responsibility in academic work
2. Requiring students to submit original work and properly cite sources to avoid plagiarism, fabrication, and unauthorised collaboration.

Key Concepts in Academic Integrity:

1. Plagiarism: Using someone else's work, ideas, or words without proper credit.
2. Fabrication/Falsification: Inventing or manipulating data, information, or citations.
3. Unauthorised Collaboration: Working with others on projects designed to be completed individually.
4. Cheating: Using unauthorised notes, study aids, or technology (including AI) during an exam or assignment.
5. Self-Plagiarism: Submitting your own previous work for a new assignment without permission

Referencing

Importance of Accurate Referencing

Academic Integrity	Supporting Claims
❖ Proper referencing acknowledges the work of others and avoids plagiarism. ❖ Demonstrates credibility and honesty in academic writing.	❖ Referencing sources provides evidence and credibility to your arguments. ❖ Allows readers to verify and explore the sources you've used.

Key Elements of APA (American Psychological Association) Referencing

In-text Citations:

Author-date citation system (Author, Year).

Include the author's last name and publication year
within the text.

Reference List:

Alphabetical list of all sources cited in the paper.

Includes full publication
details for each source.

Formatting:

Consistent use of hanging
indentation, italics for titles, and proper capitalization.

In-text & End-of-Text Referencing

Text:

There is no one simple definition of organic food but the term generally refers to “any food grown and processed without using synthetic chemicals, chemical fertilizer, pesticides, irradiation or genetically modified seeds” (Mariani, 2014, p. 20).

B?

Reference list:

Mariani, J. F. (2014). Organic. In The encyclopaedia of American food and drink. London, United Kingdom: Bloomsbury. Retrieved from <http://search.credoreference.com/content/entry/bloomfood/organic/0>

1. Identify the in-text and end-of-text reference.
2. Which elements are the same?
3. Why is the rest needed in the end-of-text reference?

Integrating Sources

A study into farming methods in China showed that non-GM rice farmers needed to use six times the quantity of pesticides compared with GM rice farmers (Huang et al., 2008).

According to Klumper and Qaim (2014), this is because there is less waste caused by pest damage, and because the crops are engineered to produce a greater quantity of crop.

Core Criteria for Source Selection:

The CRAAP Test by California State University

(Currency, Relevance, Authority, Accuracy, and Purpose)

- ❖ Currency: Is the information up-to-date? (Nothing older than 5 years).
- ❖ Relevance: Does it actually help answer your specific research question?
- ❖ Authority: Who is the author? Are they a respected expert or a peer-reviewed journal?
- ❖ Accuracy: Is the data supported by evidence and free from obvious errors?
- ❖ Purpose: Why does this information exist? (Is it to inform, or to sell a specific brand of equipment?)

A blue alarm clock is positioned in the center-left of the frame. A yellow rectangular sign is placed over the clock's face, displaying the text 'BACK IN 10 MINUTES' in a bold, black, sans-serif font. The clock has two bells on top and is standing on four small legs. In the background, to the left, is a white wire mesh basket, and to the right is a blurred, light-colored ceramic pot. The overall lighting is soft and warm, suggesting an indoor setting.
